Definition of Disability

For the benefit waiting period and the first 24 months that Long Term Disability benefits are payable, you will be considered disabled if, as a result of physical disease, injury, pregnancy or mental disorder:

- You are unable to perform with reasonable continuity the substantial and material acts necessary to pursue duties of your own occupation and you are not working in your own occupation, or

- You are unable to earn 80 percent or more of your predisability earnings when working in your own occupation.

You are not considered disabled merely because your right to perform your own occupation is restricted, including a restriction or loss of license.

After the own occupation period of disability, you will be considered disabled if, as a result of a physical disease, injury, pregnancy or mental disorder, you are unable to engage with reasonable continuity in any occupation, or you are working in an occupation but as a result of physical disease, injury, pregnancy or mental disorder you are unable to engage with reasonable continuity in that occupation or any occupation.

Any occupation means all occupations or employment which you could reasonably be expected to perform satisfactorily in light of your age, education, training, experience, station in life, and physical and mental capacity at an occupation within a reasonable distance from your residence, an equivalent distance to your work before disability, or the regional labor market if you reside in a metropolitan area.

When Your Benefits End

Your Long Term Disability benefits end automatically on the date any of the following occur:

- You are no longer disabled
- Your maximum benefit period ends
- Benefits become payable under any other disability insurance plan under which you become insured through employment during a period of temporary recovery
- You fail to provide proof of continued disability and entitlement to benefits
- The date your work earnings exceed 80 percent of your indexed predisability earnings
- You pass away

Deductible Income

Your benefits will be reduced if you have deductible income, which is income you receive or are entitled to receive while receiving Long Term Disability benefits. Deductible income includes:

- Sick pay, annual or personal leave pay, severance pay or other forms of salary continuation (including donated amounts) paid to you by your employer
- Benefits under any workers' compensation law (other than California Workers' Compensation benefits for permanent total and permanent partial disability) or similar law
- Amounts under unemployment compensation law
- Social Security disability or retirement benefits, including benefits for your spouse and children

- Any amount of third party liability payments you receive by judgment, settlement or otherwise
- Any amount you receive by compromise, settlement or other method as a result of a claim for any of the above

Benefit Calculation Example

The Long Term Disability benefit amount is determined by multiplying your insured predisability earnings by the specified benefit percentage. This amount is then reduced by deductible income. In the example below, the Long Term Disability benefit amount is 60 percent of insured predisability earnings. If your monthly earnings before becoming disabled were $4,500, and you now receive a monthly State Disability insurance benefit of $1,200 and a monthly retirement benefit of $900, your monthly Long Term Disability benefit would be calculated as follows:

Insured predisability earnings	$4,500
Long Term Disability benefit percentage	X 60%
	$2,700
Less State Disability insurance benefit	-$1,200
Less retirement benefit	-$900
Amount of Long Term Disability benefit	$600*

*Please note your Long Term Disability benefit amount may vary based on your own circumstances including earnings, whether your employer has a retirement plan and the amount of their contribution.

When Your Insurance Ends

Your insurance ends automatically when any of the following occur:

- The date the last period ends for which a premium was paid
- The date your employment terminates
- The date the group policy terminates
- The date you cease to meet the eligibility requirements (insurance may continue for limited periods under certain circumstances)
- The date City of Riverside ends participation in the group policy

Group Insurance Certificate

If coverage becomes effective and you become insured, you may receive a group insurance certificate containing a detailed description of the insurance coverage, including the definitions, exclusions, limitations, reductions and terminating events. The controlling provisions will be in the group policy. The information present in this summary does not modify the group policy, certificate or the insurance coverage in any way.
