200 employee volunteers participated in the Week of Caring (Five Days, Many Ways)
In 1906, a man named Leo Samuel founded Oregon Life Insurance Company on the belief that a local business was better for West Coast customers and communities. Now known as The Standard, our company has grown a lot in 112 years, and the insurance and financial services industry continues to change, but that same belief — that customer service matters and that our business has a vital role to play in our communities — continues to shape and guide us today.

We believe it is important to carry on Leo’s legacy of generosity and make sure our company culture always reflects our strong values. Many of our employees are attracted to The Standard in part because of the opportunity to make a positive difference in the lives of customers and to help support the communities where we live and work. Our philanthropy reached a high point in 2017 when employees and the company joined together to send more than $5.5 million to some 1,700 nonprofits and schools. That is an inspiring level of support, and you’ll read more about it in this community engagement report, along with information about a variety of volunteer activities and, of course, our annual Employee Giving Campaign.

The Employee Giving Campaign is one of our signature charity events. During the EGC, the company matches employee donations 2-for-1 to any eligible nonprofit or school. We raised a record-breaking $4.4 million during the 2017 EGC thanks to generous employees and matching funds from both The Standard and Meiji Yasuda.

Meiji Yasuda, one of Japan’s oldest and most respected insurers, acquired the parent company of The Standard in 2016. Leaders at Meiji Yasuda share our belief that we have a responsibility to help when we can, which is why they chose to also match employee donations during last year’s EGC. We are very grateful for their support.

At The Standard, we believe engaged employees and a culture of caring is a winning combination for our communities and our customers. And we also believe compassion and the desire to give back are what make us The Standard. Keep reading to see how we continue to build and reinforce those values and encourage employees to put them into action in our communities.

J. Greg Ness
Chairman, President and CEO
The Standard is committed to ensuring financial well-being and peace of mind for our customers. Our employees fulfill this commitment every day by providing best-in-class customer service and innovative product offerings as well as answering the call when customers need us most.

We believe engaged employees make a difference. Employees at The Standard bring their full selves — including their passion for the community — to work. Our community engagement programs help ensure their passion can be meaningfully directed into the places we live and work.

Here are just a few of the ways The Standard supports our employees so they can make a difference year-round:

Paid time off for volunteering
The Standard provides employees annual paid time off to volunteer. Employees use those hours to support community partners such as schools, Meals on Wheels, literacy programs and other worthy groups.

Day of Caring events
The company hosts Day of Caring volunteer events to focus even more support on partners such as Forest Park Conservancy, Trillium Family Services, Oregon Food Bank and other organizations working to strengthen our communities. In 2017, we hosted 40 Day of Caring events.

Five Days, Many Ways
During The Standard’s annual Week of Caring — Five Days, Many Ways — organizers coordinated volunteer projects with 14 nonprofits during the week of April 24 – 28. Two hundred employee volunteers collectively gave more than 450 hours’ worth of their time and talents. They painted walls, prepared meals, cleaned children’s books, prepped garden beds, helped build a home, shopped for seniors, sorted school supplies and much more at organizations throughout the community.

Dollars for Doers
Our Dollars for Doers program, established in 1985, encourages employees to become grantmakers, requesting philanthropic support from The Standard for the organizations where they volunteer. Last year, 20 employees requested and received grants for their favorite nonprofits.

Nonprofit Board Training
The Standard expects officers of the company to serve on at least one civic, school or nonprofit board and offers training to provide all employees with the expertise they’ll need to be a successful board member. In 2017, dozens of employees took advantage of our annual board training and more than 50 of our senior leaders currently serve on nonprofit or civic boards.

Our company also has a number of special events each year to help engaged employees make a difference. Here are just a few of the milestone giving events at The Standard:
Employee Giving Campaign

During our annual companywide giving campaign — a signature event at The Standard — the company matches employee contributions up to $5,000 per person to any eligible nonprofit or school. There are also picnics, games, bake sales and even an online auction to raise funds, build awareness about the campaign and celebrate our culture of caring. In 2017 our employees in offices across the country participated, pledging $1.4 million to 1,700 nonprofits. After matching funds from both The Standard and Meiji Yasuda, we sent $4.4 million to our community partners.

Volunteer Expo

Each September, The Standard hosts Oregon’s largest Volunteer Expo in Portland and also one in Cincinnati. The expo helps connect employees and the public with the local volunteer opportunities that match their interests and expertise. In 2017 more than 150 nonprofit organizations participated in our expo and hundreds of employees attended and volunteered, helping connect members of the public with local nonprofits.

Jeans Days program

Now in its 13th year, the Jeans Days program offers employees the option to wear jeans on Thursdays and Fridays in exchange for a $100 donation to a nonprofit partner. In 2017, employee donations were matched dollar for dollar by The Standard and Meiji Yasuda, and the funds went to five great nonprofits: PSU Foundation College Affordability & Success Fund (Portland), Central City Concern (Portland), Save the Animals Foundation (Cincinnati), My Sisters’ Place (White Plains, New York) and Frannie’s House — a program of the YWCA (Virginia).

Employees of The Standard donated to Central City Concern through the Jeans Days program and after matching dollars, more than $300,000 went to support the Eastside Health Center. The six-story health care facility will serve 3,000 people each year with recovery, mental health and targeted primary care services.
The company that would become The Standard was founded in Portland, Oregon, in 1906 and is still headquartered here. We have grown a lot since then, with offices across the country. Employees in our field offices are linked to the home office by the same focus on community and giving back — in fact, it’s one of the things that drew them to The Standard in the first place.

Here are some employee stories from offices across the country:

Altavista, Virginia — The Standard was the title sponsor of the 11th annual Giblet Jog 5K Run in Altavista, one of our newest office locations. About 20 employees of The Standard joined nearly 300 participants on Thanksgiving Day to benefit Altavista On Track, a nonprofit whose mission is to revitalize the downtown district by fostering economic development and opportunity.

White Plains, New York — Employees at our White Plains office coordinated a clothing drive for Dress for Success and Career Gear. These organizations are focused on preparing women and men from all walks of life for job interviews by providing professional clothing, career coaching and interview preparation. Organized by the Women’s Career Network, an employee resource group at The Standard, the annual drive collected items from employees in the home offices, White Plains, Tanasbourne and Altavista.

Cincinnati, Ohio — Employee volunteers from our Cincinnati office donned hard hats and safety glasses to work on construction of a Habitat for Humanity house in Latonia Lakes, Kentucky. Building homes and providing hope for those in need is an important part of The Standard’s commitment to the communities where our employees live and work.

Employee resource groups
Many of our employees choose to give back by joining company-sponsored employee resource groups. These groups are made up of like-minded people who want to make a difference in specific areas that benefit our company, the community and, in some cases, the entire planet.
One of our employee resource groups, Celebrating Racial and Ethnic Diversity, or CRED, focuses on honoring the diverse heritage and cultural backgrounds of the employee community here at The Standard. CRED’s annual Cultural Fair is a popular company event with food, fun and festivities from around the globe. At the August event, hundreds of employees enjoyed tasting a variety of cuisines and learning cultural games and crafts with their peers.

The Standard stood in very colorful solidarity with the LGBTQ community in June by raising rainbow Pride flags at both downtown Portland buildings. The flag-raising event was hosted by our employee resource group, StandOUT, and drew a big crowd of employees and members of the public. June is Pride Month, focused on celebrating the diversity of the lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender communities and raising awareness about discrimination LGBTQ people still face. The Standard is proud to have received 100 percent on the Human Rights Campaign Corporate Equality Index for two consecutive years.

Our other employee resource groups include:

RISE — focuses on building a community of professionals who collaborate to develop their professional values, competencies and interests.

Green Team — promotes business practices and employee actions that further our efforts to create a sustainable future for our company, our community and our environment.

Money$mart — inspires employees of The Standard to meet their financial goals.

Women’s Career Network — offers members dynamic opportunities to foster personal and professional growth through networking events, educational seminars and community volunteer opportunities.

SERV — The Standard Employees Recognizing Veterans supports veteran employees and immediate family members of veterans who are employees of The Standard.

Parents Working Together — values people collaborating, sharing parenting resources and celebrating family milestones.
WE BELIEVE IN GIVING BACK

At The Standard, we are a company of like-minded people who choose to give back to our communities. It should come as no surprise that employees who choose to work at The Standard contribute to a culture of caring that infuses our entire company. The Standard, along with The Standard Charitable Foundation — which has a mission of making a positive difference in the places we live and work by supporting community development, education and disability organizations — provided direct support for a number of organizations in 2017:

Oregon Zoo Education Center
The Oregon Zoo’s new education center is filled with amazing things to see and do. The center opened in 2017 with a little help from The Standard and other local businesses. The center provides a welcoming entry and staging area for the thousands of children who participate in zoo camps and classes each year. It includes a new insect zoo, species conservation lab, nature play area and classrooms for students of all ages. It also serves as a regional hub, expanding the zoo’s conservation education programs through partnerships with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, U.S. Forest Service, National Wildlife Federation, the Intertwine Alliance and more. The Standard has been a longtime supporter of the zoo through board leadership and philanthropic support.

Portland State University School of Business
The Standard maintains a special relationship with the Portland State University School of Business — many employees received degrees from there and others are currently pursuing degrees or other continuing education. 2017 marked the dedication and opening of the new home for the School of Business — the Karl Miller Center. The 143,000-square-foot building nearly triples the business school’s previous footprint and occupies a striking new space at the heart of the downtown Portland campus. The new building has 21 classrooms — including one named for The Standard, recognizing our philanthropic support — and 10 project meeting spaces. We are proud to be a part of fostering the next generation of business and nonprofit leaders.
The Standard Charitable Foundation 2017 grant highlights

Financial Beginnings
Financial Beginnings empowers youth and adults to take control of their financial futures. Its programs teach individuals how to participate in their financial health, how to make informed decisions and how to responsibly manage money to protect and build their assets. The Standard Charitable Foundation provided a $20,000 grant in support of the organization’s core programs — Financial Foundations and Pathways to Postsecondary Success — and the launch of a new one-on-one financial coaching program focused on community college students.

MBA Opens Doors Foundation
Imagine that your child is experiencing a critical illness or injury. That stress and worry is compounded by managing your everyday bills while taking unpaid leave to care for your child. The Mortgage Bankers Association Opens Doors Foundation provides mortgage and rental assistance payment grants to parents and guardians caring for a critically ill or injured child, allowing them to take precious time together without jeopardizing their homes. The Standard Charitable Foundation provided a $15,000 grant to support this important mission.

Young Entrepreneurs Business Week
Young Entrepreneurs Business Week encourages young people to explore business through hands-on experiential learning. Students run their own mock companies and transform original product ideas into business plans with guidance and coaching from real entrepreneurs, executives and educators. The foundation granted $5,000 to expand the organization’s outreach into underserved rural communities in Oregon.

Freestore Foodbank
In the Cincinnati area, 1 in 6 people are at risk of hunger. Freestore Foodbank not only provides emergency food assistance, but also works to help reduce the need. The Standard Charitable Foundation funded a $15,000 grant to Cincinnati COOKSI, a free culinary job training program for under- and unemployed individuals. Since the program began in 2001, more than 1,500 people have graduated and gone on to find employment at more than 200 local culinary institutions.

Virginia Garcia Memorial Health Center
Founded in 1975, Virginia Garcia Memorial Health Center has provided high-quality, comprehensive and culturally appropriate primary health care to the communities in Washington and Yamhill counties in Oregon with a special focus on migrant and seasonal farmworkers. The foundation provided a grant of $25,000 to support the construction of the new Beaverton Wellness Center, designed to meet the urgent need for access to affordable health care in the community.

Community Vision
Community Vision works to make Oregon a place where all people with disabilities can live, work and thrive in whatever neighborhood they choose. A foundation grant of $10,000 is helping Community Vision centralize services for people with disabilities at the Seven Corners Collaborative Building. Its vision is to connect people with disabilities with resources and to help increase their independence and self-determination.
WE BELIEVE IN A MORE SUSTAINABLE WORLD

At The Standard, one of our core values is to leave the company in better shape than when we inherited it. We consider every decision’s long-range effect on our company, our community and our environment. So when we began a large-scale modernization of our two downtown Portland towers, we kept our values at the center of our decision-making process. The Standard chose a recycled denim product as insulation in the renovation. The product is made from high-quality natural fibers, so it contains no fiberglass or other chemical irritants while still providing extremely effective sound absorption and maximum thermal performance. The carpet was also made from 80 percent recycled materials.

And what to do with all of the office equipment that was replaced? Our facilities team took recycling to the next level by donating our gently used office furnishings — along with time and expertise — to SOLVE, one of our longtime community partners. In 2017, SOLVE moved offices and, like most nonprofits, lacked the budget to splurge on new furniture and fixtures. Along with coordinating the furniture donation to SOLVE, our facilities team members offered their space-planning expertise and move coordination support.

WE BELIEVE IN HELPING OUR COMMUNITIES BY ANSWERING THE CALL

2017 was an unprecedented year for natural disasters. From the hurricanes and floods in Texas, Florida and Puerto Rico to the wildfires that devastated California and Oregon, our employees reached out with a caring hand to our neighbors, customers and communities. The Standard made contributions to the American Red Cross and the National Forest Foundation to support the immediate relief and long-term recovery needs of communities in these areas. Employees also donated blood and pledged funds through the Employee Giving Campaign to many of the organizations providing disaster relief.

2017 award highlights

The Standard and our employees were honored to receive awards from our community partners in 2017. Some of the highlights include:

Lines for Life Champion of Hope Award — Dan McMillan, vice president of Employee Benefits, was honored with the Lines for Life Champion of Hope Award. Lines for Life is a national organization focused on preventing substance abuse and suicide.

Portland Opera Philanthropic Leaders in the Arts Community Award — The Standard has provided philanthropic and other support to the Portland Opera for more than three decades. The award recognizes and celebrates outstanding leadership and philanthropy in the arts.

Regional Arts & Culture Council Top Corporate Donor to the Arts Award — The Standard was the top corporate donor to arts and culture organizations in the Portland Metro area and was honored at the JUICE: Fueling Innovation event in February.

Serendipity Center Jeri Hamilton Extraordinary Service Award — Serendipity Center is a nonprofit therapeutic school serving at-risk students whose complex needs prevent success in other settings. Each year, Serendipity honors those individuals and corporations whose efforts have enhanced Serendipity’s capacity to educate and nurture their students. The Standard was honored to receive this award in 2017.

Human Rights Campaign Corporate Equality Index — The Standard is proud to have received 100 percent on the Human Rights Campaign Corporate Equality Index for the second consecutive year. HRC rates companies on corporate policies and practices pertinent to LGBTQ employees.
In Memoriam

Our company and our employees believe in doing our part to help others, and no one embodied that spirit of generosity and compassion quite like Ben Whiteley. Ben was president of The Standard from 1983 to 1994, helping The Standard achieve new levels of success. He passed away May 4, 2017; he is missed by many, and for many reasons — near the very top of that list was his unparalleled philanthropic leadership. Ben served on a variety of boards — from the United Way to Portland Opera — and along with his wife, Elaine, donated time, expertise and money to a wide range of community partners. For their efforts, Ben and Elaine were honored with the Vollum Award for Lifetime Philanthropic Achievement in 2016, recognizing 40 years of giving back.

About The Standard

The Standard provides insurance and financial products and services to more than six million customers who rely on us to achieve financial well-being and peace of mind. The company that would become The Standard — Oregon Life Insurance Company — was founded in Portland, Oregon, in 1906 by Leo Samuel. Leo believed a local company could provide better service to customers living and working in the Pacific Northwest while contributing directly to the region’s economy. Though we have offices across the country, The Standard is still headquartered in Portland, and we are still guided by Leo’s commitment to exceptional service and to strengthening communities. Our approximately 3,100 employees find ways to give back, donating time and money to their favorite schools and nonprofits. In the last 11 years alone, The Standard and our employees contributed more than $30 million and countless volunteer hours to community partners. We believe in making a difference — for our customers and for our neighbors.

You can learn more about The Standard and our affiliates at www.standard.com.
