Please visit standard.com/community to learn more about our funding priorities and to view a complete list of nonprofit and educational organizations funded by our company, foundation, employees and retirees.
Our company was founded in Portland, Oregon, in 1906 so we have deep roots here as a leading national provider of insurance and financial services. Our business is caring about people and we’re always there for our customers, often when they face challenging circumstances. Compassion and empathy are at the heart of our business model and that attracts people who want to help others.

If you work at The Standard, you want to make a difference — it’s that simple. From locations that span the country — home offices in downtown Portland and Tannasbourne as well as offices in Cincinnati; Altavista, Virginia; and White Plains, New York — we focus on helping our communities and our neighbors reach a little higher.

One of the best examples of this is our annual Employee Giving Campaign. During this three-week signature event, the company matches employee donations 2 for 1 to their favorite nonprofits. In 2018, we broke another record for total giving, reaching higher than ever before.

We celebrated another important milestone in 2018 — The Standard Charitable Foundation surpassed the $1.5 million mark in total giving. We formed the Foundation in 2006 to celebrate our centennial anniversary. One of its objectives is a special focus aligned to the nature of our work — funding organizations that support individuals who have experienced a loss or a setback such as a major disability or loss of a loved one.

For many people in our community, access to housing is the foundation that allows them to reach higher. Last year we partnered with Habitat for Humanity on a very special project: the Whiteley House. This new home construction project honors a beloved former president of The Standard, Ben Whiteley, who passed away in 2017. Employees have been volunteering at the site, temporarily trading their desk jobs for a hard hat and work gloves, to help build a better future for a deserving family.

Helping students reach higher is another goal that motivates many of our employees to volunteer their time and financial support. Inspired by this focus, The Standard makes education a top priority as well, funding a number of academically focused nonprofits and schools, and even forming an innovative partnership with Portland State University to support a professorship in the business school and host PSU interns at the company.

You’ll read all about these activities and more in the pages of this report.

Before I close, I also want to recognize Meiji Yasuda, our parent company, for their continued philanthropic support. In 2016, The Standard joined the Meiji Yasuda family of businesses, headquartered in Tokyo, and we are fortunate they share our strong commitment to communities and encourage us to continue strengthening the places our employees and customers live and work.

At The Standard, helping others reach higher is an important part of who we are, and I’m pleased to share details about the many ways our employees go above and beyond.

Thanks for taking the time to learn more.

J. Greg Ness
Chairman, President and CEO
The Standard is committed to ensuring financial well-being and peace of mind for our customers. Our employees fulfill this commitment every day by providing best-in-class customer service and innovative product offerings as well as answering the call when our customers need us most.

The partnership between employees and the company is the cornerstone of our community engagement work. We believe passionate, involved employees drive our business success and make a real difference in the communities where we live, work and play.

Here are just a few of the ways The Standard supports our employees in caring for our communities year-round:

Paid time off for volunteering
The Standard provides employees paid time off to volunteer each year. Employees use those hours to follow their passion to support hundreds of community organizations and schools.

Days of Caring events
The company hosts Days of Caring events to focus even more support on partners such as Habitat for Humanity, Trillium Family Services and other organizations working to strengthen our communities. In 2018 we hosted 30 Days of Caring events that drew hundreds of employee volunteers.

Dollars for Doers
Our Dollars for Doers program, established in 1985, allows employees to direct funding from The Standard to the organizations where they volunteer. Last year, 15 employees requested and received grants for their favorite nonprofits, strengthening the partnership between employees and the community organizations they value.

Nonprofit board training
The Standard expects officers of the company to serve on at least one civic, school or nonprofit board, and provides training opportunities for all employees interested in developing the expertise needed to be a successful board member. In 2018, nearly 40 employees took advantage of our annual board training and more than 50 of our senior leaders served on nonprofit or civic boards.

Employee resource groups
Many of our employees choose to give back by joining company-sponsored employee resource groups. These groups bring together like-minded people who want to make a difference in specific areas that benefit our company and our community. They organize educational and cultural events that help raise awareness about a wide variety of issues and topics.
When it comes to giving, the people who choose to work at The Standard lead the way. In 2018, employee volunteers across the company found many opportunities to help the people in their communities reach higher:

- Employees at our Tanasbourne campus in Hillsboro, Oregon, began a unique mentoring partnership through Big Brothers Big Sisters Columbia Northwest. The Beyond School Walls mentoring program connects youth to caring adult mentors. Kids receive transportation to the Tanasbourne office twice a month to meet with their mentor and engage in a curriculum facilitated by Big Brothers Big Sisters staff focused on promoting life skills development.

- Employees at our office in White Plains, New York, proudly supported the Urban League of Westchester County, with The Standard as a sponsor of the organization’s 100-year celebration. The Urban League is a historic national civil rights organization dedicated to fostering economic empowerment to elevate the standard of living in historically underserved urban communities. Employees who attended the luncheon learned how the organization helps people find work and places to live as well as helping entrepreneurs grow their business.

- Employees at our offices in Portland, Oregon, grabbed their hard hats and work gloves to help 2018 Jeans Days partner Habitat for Humanity build a house for the Lopez Silva family in northeast Portland. Habitat for Humanity helps connect deserving families with affordable housing by building new homes from scratch with funding support from local businesses and individuals. This particular project was funded in part by Ben Whiteley, former president of The Standard, who passed away in May 2017, and his wife, Elaine. The partnership with Habitat for Humanity means the Lopez Silva family can purchase their home with an affordable mortgage set at no more than 30 percent of their total household income.

- Employees really turned up the giving during the holiday season:
  - In Tampa, Florida, employee volunteers from the Tampa Group Office brightened the holidays for clients of Joshua House, a home for abused children. The team put up trees and decorations in the recreation room, lobby and front yard.
  - In Miami, Florida, employees from the Miami Group Office volunteered to distribute gifts to families in need through the Salvation Army of Broward County.
  - In Portland, Oregon, employees from the Retirement Plans division spent the day at Sunshine Division sorting donated food items. By the end of the day, the group had sorted 4,285 pounds of food to package and distribute to families and individuals.
Leo Award winners

In 2008, The Standard established the Leo Award program in honor of our founder, Leo Samuel. Each year, the company recognizes four employee volunteers — nominated by their peers and determined by popular vote — who exemplify the community spirit of Leo Samuel. Winners receive a cash award for themselves and a cash donation to their nonprofit from The Standard. The program provides increased visibility for nonprofit organizations along with well-deserved recognition for the many employee volunteers who devote countless time and energy to these organizations.

In 2018, we honored these four exceptional employee volunteers:

Jenny Vu
HRIS specialist, Human Resources

Years at The Standard: 7
Charity: Blanchet House

Why she volunteers: “Volunteering at Blanchet House makes me think about what I have and that I should be happy, because no matter what my problems are, things could always be worse. It makes me very thankful.”

Clark Hays
Senior editor, writer and strategist, Corporate Communications

Years at The Standard: 11
Charity: Meals on Wheels

Why he volunteers: “When I became the primary caregiver for my mom, who was dealing with dementia and cancer, I realized how quickly seniors, especially, can become isolated if they don’t have family to support them or dedicated caregivers. The Standard makes it easy to get involved and make a difference for this vulnerable population.”

Brent Snyder
Senior Employee Benefits consultant, Orange County Sales and Service Office

Years at The Standard: 2
Charity: Foundation for Prader-Willi Research

Why he volunteers: “My daughter, Peyton, was diagnosed with Prader-Willi Syndrome shortly after birth. I’m looking to grow awareness, since it’s such a rare condition. It’s hard to get the attention of the medical community or pharmaceutical companies, but we believe research is the best hope for coming up with ways to help these kids grow up and lead independent lives.”

Tom Simpson
Director of Government and Regulatory Affairs, President’s Division

Years at The Standard: 12
Charity: Portland Youth Builders

Why he volunteers: “I come from a privileged background, so this program really opened my eyes. Portland Youth Builders offers hope and a second chance at success for youth whose experiences with poverty, violence, drugs, hunger and loss have interrupted their route to success. We’re giving kids a leg up to become productive members of society.”
Each year, the company hosts several signature events designed to raise money and support for local charities.

Week of Caring
At the beginning of April, employees from offices across the company volunteered during the annual Week of Caring — Five Days, Many Ways. The Week of Caring gives employee volunteers a chance to explore a variety of volunteer projects to benefit nonprofit organizations throughout our communities. Volunteers prepared meals, helped build a home, shopped for seniors, cleaned donated children’s books and much more at organizations throughout the community.

Volunteer Expo
Each September, The Standard hosts Oregon’s largest Volunteer Expo in Portland and one in Cincinnati. 2018 marked the 10th anniversary of the Volunteer Expo in Portland and The Standard celebrated with more than 130 nonprofit partners in Pioneer Courthouse Square. The expo helps connect employees and the public with local volunteer opportunities that match their interests and expertise. For the second year, the expo featured a video contest for organizations to share their missions through social media and encourage others to visit the expo and get involved. The three organizations with the most views — Passion Impact, Young Audiences of Oregon and SW Washington and Our House — each received a grant from The Standard.

Employee Giving Campaign
The Standard places our employees at the heart of our philanthropy. The Employee Giving Campaign — a signature event at The Standard — encourages employees to give to the causes that matter the most to them. During the three-week campaign, The Standard matches employee contributions dollar for dollar up to $5,000 and Meiji Yasuda offers a second match. The organizations receive those donations throughout the next calendar year. The 2018 campaign was another record-setter — $4.7 million pledged to 1,800 nonprofits and schools. More than 2,100 employees pledged support during the campaign.

Jeans Days program
Now in its 14th year, the Jeans Days program offers employees the option to wear jeans on Thursdays and Fridays in exchange for a $100 donation to a nonprofit partner. The beneficiaries during the 2018 campaign were Altavista Area/Campbell County Habitat for Humanity, Habitat for Humanity of Greater Cincinnati, Habitat for Humanity Portland/Metro East, Habitat for Humanity International, Otter River Resource Center and Brighton Center. Overall, the Jeans Days program raised more than $464,000 for six nonprofit organizations in Ohio, Oregon, New York and Virginia. Organizations receive the funds in 2019.
Corporate giving

At The Standard, our workforce is comprised of like-minded people who choose to give back to our communities. The company’s philanthropy focuses on four areas:

Cultural development
Arts and cultural organizations play a major role in vibrant communities. The Standard supports organizations that offer multicultural art programs and provide enhanced access for the underserved. Specifically, we encourage programs that build audiences and promote the arts through education, interactive media and artistic excellence.

Disability and empowerment
Our business is about helping people overcome hardships and empowering success. The Standard supports organizations that help people with disabilities thrive independently and overcome barriers to social and economic success. We also support programs that provide relief during transitions to independent living.

Education and advancement
The health and well-being of our communities is in the hands of children who are the workers, innovators, leaders and artists of the future. We fund organizations that foster strategic learning initiatives to better prepare children for success. We emphasize programs that strengthen the quality of education — including early childhood — and workforce development.

Healthy communities
Strong, vibrant communities are a critical source of security for all residents. We fund organizations that provide support, training and rehabilitation to individuals and families facing significant challenges. We also fund programs that help individuals and families develop capabilities to increase self-sufficiency.

Reaching higher education

In addition to direct funding for a range of local nonprofits, The Standard is a longtime partner with Portland State University. The Standard’s investment in the school of business is substantial. Leaders and managers volunteer as mentors to students, judge business plan competitions, serve as guest lecturers in classes, employ PSU graduates and serve in different advisory board capacities. The Standard invested in the renovation and expansion of the new School of Business building — the Karl Miller Center. The building has 21 classrooms — including one named for The Standard — and 10 project or meeting spaces.

In 2018, The Standard and Portland State University School of Business announced a new and innovative partnership with the creation of The Standard PSU Professorship in Analytics in the business intelligence and analytics program. This program is co-curricular, uniting the School of Business and the departments of Computer Science and Statistics with a graduate program that closes the gap between data scientist and product executive, teaching students to analyze data in ways that drive and inform business strategies. Funded by The Standard, the professorship supports applied research, convening and community building, disseminating knowledge and translating knowledge into practice. It’s an exciting way to help students reach higher.
2018 award highlights

Americans for the Arts BCA 10 Award — The Standard was named one of the 10 best businesses partnering with the arts in America for 2018. Presented every year by the Business Committee for the Arts, a division of Americans for the Arts, the BCA 10 honors 10 U.S. companies and one individual for their exceptional commitment to the arts through grants, local partnerships, volunteer programs, matching gifts, sponsorships and board membership. The Standard is just the second recipient of this award from Oregon since inception.

Trillium Family Services Mental Health Heroes Award — Longtime community partner, Trillium Family Services, honored The Standard with a Keep Oregon Well Mental Health Heroes Award. Trillium is Oregon’s largest mental and behavioral health care provider for children and families.

My Sisters’ Place Community Partner Award — In recognition of their continued support, employees of The Standard in White Plains, New York, received the 2018 Community Partner award from My Sisters’ Place. My Sisters’ Place strives to end domestic violence and human trafficking through comprehensive services, advocacy and community education.
The Standard Charitable Foundation surpasses milestone

Founded in 2006 to celebrate our centennial anniversary, The Standard Charitable Foundation’s mission is to make a positive difference in communities by supporting organizations focused on community development, education, disability and health, with an emphasis on individuals who have experienced a loss or a setback such as a major disability or loss of a loved one. In 2018, the foundation granted $150,000 to nine organizations making a difference in our communities, surpassing the $1.5 million mark for total funding. Four of the grants awarded were:

Portland Homeless Family Solutions
Portland Homeless Family Solutions empowers families who experience homelessness to get back into housing and stay there long term. The Standard Charitable Foundation granted $25,000 to help purchase a building and adjacent apartments in the Lents neighborhood of Portland, Oregon, to expand their services and be closer to the families they serve.

Mt. Hood Kiwanis Camp
The Standard Charitable Foundation awarded a $15,000 grant to Mt. Hood Kiwanis Camp to help special-needs children and their families attend summer camp. The Family Camp program is a way for children with developmental and physical disabilities — including autism, Down syndrome and cerebral palsy — to experience the outdoors in a safe environment with parents and trained staff.

Transition Projects, Inc.
Transition Projects, Inc., received $25,000 to expand its outreach and service navigation to people sleeping unsheltered in downtown Portland. Its Mobile Engagement team provides street-level support through engagement and building relationships to connect people to shelter, health and wellness services and housing.

Dougy Center for Grieving Children
The Dougy Center for Grieving Children is a national nonprofit where children, teens, young adults and their families grieving a death can share their experiences. The foundation awarded $10,000 for the Dougy Center to print and distribute copies of a Teen Grief Journal and an After a Death activity book for children ages 5 – 12.

Additionally, The Standard Charitable Foundation supported:

- Portland State University
- Portland Youth Builders
- Financial Beginnings Oregon
- Shadow Project
- United Way of Jackson County
In Memoriam

Eric Parsons, former chairman and CEO of The Standard, passed away Jan. 9, 2019. During his almost 40-year career at The Standard, Eric helped lead the company all while advocating tirelessly for our communities. Eric began his career at The Standard in 1968, working part time as the editor of our company newsletter, and retired in 2009 after serving as CEO and chairman of the board. Along with an impressive professional career, Eric distinguished himself as a philanthropist and passionate community supporter. He helped so many community partners reach higher, and inspired employees to find ways to give back and make a difference.

He will be greatly missed by many.

Eric served on the board or was the board chair for these organizations:

- San Juan Island Community Foundation
- Oregon Community Foundation
- Oregon Health & Sciences University Foundation
- Oregon Health Policy Board
- Portland Opera
- Oregon Business Council
- Oregon Health & Sciences University Cancer Institute Council
- Oregon Historical Society
- Portland Art Museum
- Portland Development Commission
- Lewis & Clark College
About The Standard

The Standard provides insurance and financial products and services to more than 6 million customers who rely on us to achieve financial well-being and peace of mind. Leo Samuel founded the company that would become The Standard — Oregon Life Insurance Company — in Portland, Oregon, in 1906. Leo believed a local company could provide better service to customers living and working in the Pacific Northwest while contributing directly to the region’s economy.

Though we have offices across the country, The Standard’s headquarters are still in Portland, and Leo’s commitment to exceptional customer service and to strengthening communities still guides us. Our approximately 3,000 employees find ways to give back, donating time and money to their favorite schools and nonprofits. In the last 12 years alone, The Standard and our employees contributed more than $35 million and countless volunteer hours to community partners. We believe in making a difference — for our customers and for our neighbors.
